EXPERT DEALS WITH ECONOMY OF HOUSEHOLD

Graduate Dietician Discusses Diets And Budgets In Consumer Education Course

Mrs. Shirley Douglas, a graduate dietician of the University of California, demonstrated how housewives can efficiently manage their finances through the use of a well planned budget, paying particular attention to diet as a safe guard to health.

Mrs. Douglas was the speaker at the Consumer Education Class, Monday of this week, at the San Mateo Junior College. At the class, Tuesday morning of next week, 9:30 to 11 o'clock, she will continue with budgets and diets and deal with the subject of "How to Spend Wisely," which will include the ways of judging various foods, staples, fabrics and the necessity for grading by law.

BUREAU PLACES RECORD NUMBER OF 1937 CLASS

Sixty-Five Percent Of San Jose Graduates Receive Regular Employment

Sixty-five percent of the 1937 graduates of San Jose State College have been placed, according to Edward Hayworth, appointment secretary. This is the largest number ever placed by the college appointment bureau.

At the end of the official placement period, September 14, 380 students of the class of 1937 had received positions. Since that time fourteen others have been placed, it was announced.

The entire group of home economic majors are employed; moreover, the combination of general elementary and music majors have attained positions. There is only one kindergarten primary major who has not found a job.

The range of these appointments varies from the extreme northern boundary of California to the Arizona boundary on the southeast.

TEAMS ARE TIED IN HARD GAME

The Indian's final practice game this season took place, Friday of last week, on Jefferson home field with Lick Wilmerding, which was favored to win.

Although Lick scored first, Jefferson came back with a great show of offensive power that set them on the top side of a 13-6 score until the final quarter of the game, when Lick broke down the Indian passing defense to score a second goal, which tied the final knot in a 13-13 score.

"Buzzy" Wright, Jefferson quarterback, split the opposing line to score the first touchdown for the Indians. Then Bud Simpson, who came back after a week's layoff, gave the crowd its biggest thrill of this year when he scored again for the Indians with a beautiful 60-yard run to completely upset the score and also the Lick grid men.

Bob McCune sliced the goal posts with a mighty drop kick, adding the critical point to the score of the game, but Lick came through to make the final tieup of a hard fought battle.

Wright and Simpson were Jefferson's chief threats throughout the whole contest.

Jefferson has regained its former power in the line, which was lost through injuries in the first games this season. From now on the Indians should prove more destructive in their remaining games.

BAYSHORE UNIT HEARS SPEAKER

Bayshore P. T. A. held its regular meeting at the schoolhouse, Friday afternoon of last week, with Mrs. Susie Byrne presiding.

Miss Florence Friedman, director of the Visitation Valley Community Center was the guest speaker. "Character Building" was her topic and it proved very interesting.

Mrs. McKnight led the members in community singing.

Mrs. Gaines is chairman of the food sale to be held at Riley Hall, Wednesday of next week. You are all urged to help out by purchasing the cooked food, salads and cakes that will be on sale.

Mrs. Edna Mangels is in charge of the Halloween party the P. T. A. is giving the children on Friday, October 29.

The Girl Scouts are giving a whist, Friday evening of next week, at Riley Hall. Mrs. Berta Hughes, captain of the Girl Scouts, asked the P. T. A. to support the girls by attending this whist.

Mrs. Bea Jeppesen held the first study circle of the year in Riley Hall. Fourteen ladies attended the study circle and after studying several subjects, refreshments were served by the hostess. These classes are held every second Wednesday of the month.

Will Tangle With Modesto Pirates

Defeating San Jose State freshmen, 21 to 6, for its third win of the 1937 football season, San Mateo Junior College is now preparing for its invasion of Modesto, October 22, for an evening game.

A special train will take the Matetan rooters and their land to the game. Goldstone Draftsman, 65 pound English bulldog mascot, will be on hand to aid in defeating the Modesto Jaysee Pirates.

MAN IS KILLED NEAR BRISBANE

Unidentified Person Struck Down By Automobile On Bayshore Highway

An unidentified 50 year old pedestrian was killed, last Sunday evening, on the Bayshore highway near Brisbane when he dodged one car only to run into the side of a machine driven by Vincent Badalamente, 22, of San Jose.

Badalamente took the man to a South San Francisco hospital, where he was pronounced dead of a fractured skull.

The body was removed to the Nieri mortuary. Examination there failed to disclose any means of identification.

The man is described as about 5 feet 10 inches in height, weight about 170 pounds, wearing overalls and jumpers. He had a three weeks growth of beard and the mouth contained all gold teeth.

DALY CITY GIRL MAY RECOVER FROM INJURIES

Miss Flora Regan Is Struck Down In Safety Zone By Reckless Driver

Described as holding her own in her fight for life, attractive Miss Flora Regan, aged 18, Daly City accident victim, had regained partial consciousness in the Villa Hospital at the time this paper goes to press.

The girl was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Rattard, 65, grocery store proprietor of 7339 Mission street, as she stood in a safety zone at Evergreen avenue and Mission street, late Monday afternoon of this week. Rattard was charged with reckless driving and released on $250 bail.

Daughter of Mrs. Mary Regan of Oakland, the young woman has lived with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Quinn of 498 Evergreen street since she

Petrified Trees Found In Northwest

A wonder worked by nature fifteen million years ago, brought to light at last from beneath tons of basalt that have covered it for ages, has placed the sage covered hills around Vantage, Wash., among the interesting points of the West. Shovels of geologists and CCC youths have recently uncovered trees of thirty varieties—all turned to solid stone by the lava that has covered them since they were torn from their roots. Janet Sue Abernathy Mead (left) and Mary Kay Mead are examining one of the species found in the petrified forest.

Young People Go On Skating Party

Twelve young people of the Book of Mormon class, Latter Day Saints, enjoyed a skating party at the Golden Gate Rink, Friday of last week.

The group was accompanied by the Bible class teacher, Mrs. Gertha McKinney.

Group Executives Are to Convene

There will be an executive session of the Brisbane Unit, P. T. A., at the McKinney Electric Shop, Thursday of next week, at 2 p. m.

The president of the local group urges all chairman to attend.

DANCE TO BE GIVEN

There will be a benefit dance for the children's fund at the Fire Hall this evening.

Under the direction of the Mothers Club, the money made by the dance is to provide the children of Brisbane with a playground.

Unit Holds Physical Education Sessions

The Brisbane P. T. A. is holding a physical education class every Monday, 10 a. m., at the Brisbane Grammar School.

Mrs. Eleanor Morley, recreational chairman, is giving her pupils many helpful hints. According to her, relaxation is the first consideration, in the bill of health.

Will Give Benefit Ball, Hallowe'en

Firemen will again be hosts to the public when they give a Hallowe'en dance, October 30, in the newly constructed Fire Hall.

The proceeds of these regular balls, sponsored by the firemen, will go to the children's Christmas fund.

ANOTHER DOG IS POISON VICTIM

Poison took the life of another San Mateo dog last Sunday.

Neil E. McEachern reported to the San Mateo Police Department that his son Douglas, 9, found the pet fox terrier dead in the family yard.

"Jo-Jo" Gaffs A Marlin At Catalina

Youngest angler to gaff a marlin swordfish at Santa Catalina Islands this season is Miles ("Jo-Jo") Overholt Jr., 15. Said he after the 20-minute tussle with the giant swordfish: "The marlin was a gorgeous sight when he leaped from the water and did a butterfly dance and for a time walked on his tail." Time and again the youthful angler had the striped sea tiger up to the boat only to have it head off in the direction of the Chinese war zone. When weighed the marlin tipped the scales at 117 pounds. "Jo-Jo" fought his catch on regulation Tuna Club 24-thread line from a launch captained by Parker Pence. He is pictured on the Avalon pier with his catch.

DIAMONDS FOUND IN SHELTER COVE CURRENT PLAY CLOSES SUNDAY AT THE ALCAZAR

By C. H. T.

After picnic parties had left the beach at Shelter Cove one Sunday, an overcoat tossed carelessly on a rock attracted the eye of George Lewis. He picked it up and laid it in his garage, ready to hand over to the owner. Six weeks passed. Nobody appeared to claim the coat.

A few days ago Mr. Lewis was clearing out his garage, discarding a lot of things that pile up in popular places like the Cove, where many people come and go in the season. And there was that overcoat. Since nobody had come for it, Mr. Lewis decided to give it away to a worker on the premises.

"Wait a moment," he said. "I'll just take a look through the pockets and see if there are any cards or letters showing identification."

Search revealed a leather case containing money, letters and a bit of folded paper which, when unwrapped, disclosed two blue-white, exquisitely cut diamonds! Most important, there was the name of the owner of the overcoat, L. S. Sweet, well-known diamond cutter, in the Jewellers' Building, San Francisco.

The following day Mr. Lewis drove to the city and went directly to Mr. Sweet's office with the coat. It is hard to say who was the more surprised—Mr. Lewis, who found the diamonds, or the owner to whom the jewels were restored after weeks of vain searching in other places where he believed he had lost his coat.

Mr. Sweet was delighted to find all his valuables intact, and he urged Mr. Lewis to accept a reward. This was refused, however, for the latter declared that to be the means of restoring the property to its owner was reward enough to him. Both men will probably remember this odd incident for a long time to come.

This was the second time this present season diamonds have been found at Shelter Cove, the previous occasion being the recovery of a $450 diamond ring that was lost in the beach sand.

WILL CONVENE IN BERKELEY

San Mateo Faculty To Be Well Represented At Annual Jaysee Conference

Faculties of the junior colleges of northern California will hold their annual fall conference at the University of California tomorrow, Saturday, with a large delegation from San Mateo Jaysee attending. Guest speakers at the meeting will be Presidents Dr. James Wood of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo.; Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford and Dr. Robert Sproul of California.

In addition to a business session, a panel discussion and talks by the guest speakers, a luncheon program will be presented at the International House on the university campus.

COUNTY HEADS QUESTIONED BY GRAND JURORS

Reconditioning Of Financial Structure Recommended At Tuesday Hearing

Changes in the financial setup of San Mateo County were advocated by the county grand jury, Tuesday evening of this week, after a hearing in which five county officials were questioned in secret.

Called before the jury were County Executive E. A. Rollison, Treasurer A. L. Sagehorn, Tax Collector Ambrose McSweeney, Assessor D. P. Flynn and District Attorney Gilbert Ferrell.

McSweeney declared the report of Hood and Strong, a San Francisco accounting firm, to be "absolutely unfair" and said he refused to be the "goat" for the faults of other departments.

The Hood and Strong audit directs two criticisms against the tax collector, it was learned.

One deals with recording delinquent tax bills on cash stubs, rather

One Of Most Successful Productions Will See Its Last Staging Here

Sunday night will see the last staging by the Federal Theaters at the Alcazar of Eugene O'Neill's Pulitzer Prize play, "Beyond The Horizon."

Opening next Wednesday night will be Julian Thompson's great comedy hit, "The Warrior's Husband."

"Beyond The Horizon" has proved one of the most successful plays produced by the local Theater Project. It has been well patronized and has served to establish the Federal Theaters actors in even greater esteem in the minds of northern California theater goers. There were more out of town mail reservations for this production than for any other done by Federal Theaters in San Francisco.

"The Warrior's Husband," with a competent cast and elaborate mounting and costuming, will undoubtedly be the ranking achievement of the local government players, according to the opinion of experts who have witnessed rehearsals. It was during the run of this play in New York that Eugene O'Neill wrote in an article in the New York Times:

"The WPA units can present important plays before audiences that have never before seen an actual stage production. The possibilities in this respect are thrilling. One of the chief functions of the government theater project should be a development of new actors and writers. The WPA units are translating into action the fact that the government has an obligation to give a reasonable amount of encouragement and assistance to cultural undertakings."

Madera To Stage Old Timers Day

Madera is busy with plans for its annual Old Timers Day, set for Saturday, October 30, and many former residents are planning to return for the occasion.

Providing an added attraction this year will be the Madera County Fair, October 29 to 31.

There will be two parades, one consisting of early day features and the other in a contrasting modern spirit.

County Fair directors are providing a half mile race track, grandstand, cattle display, stalls and a large tent for exhibits.

Hi Students Visit Cal. University

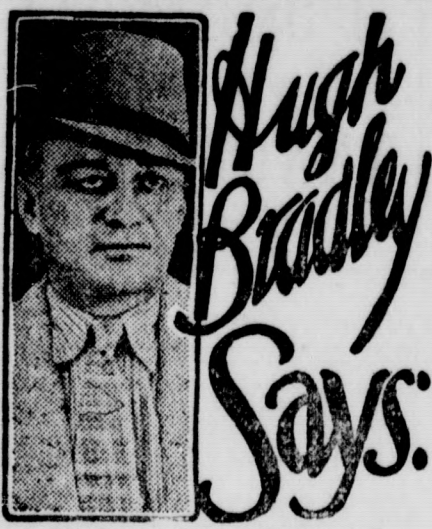

Journalism students at Jefferson Union High School will have an interesting day tomorrow when they visit the University of California and participate in the activities of Press Day, which is sponsored by the profession journalistic and advertising honor fraternities. This is strictly a bay region event for the high schools and junior colleges. An elaborate program of conferences on various journalism subjects, is being arranged for the forenoon and will be followed by a luncheon.

Those planning to attend include Florine Capurro, Evelyn Clanton, Winola Ford, Barbara Linden, Eleanor Price, Edith Shiffman, and Edith Taylor. Mr. Clive M. Saiz, Totem Pole sponsor, and Mrs. Mildred Price will accompany the group.

Jefferson Union High Basketballers Win

Pulling away in the final minutes to win in both contests the Jefferson ten's and twenty's basketball teams, tallied two more victims to their credit.

Playing at the huge Kezar Pavilion inspired the local boys and they came through to win in the closing seconds of both games, the ten's winning 18-16 and the twenty's 13-12. The twenty's trailed St. Ignatius for the major part of the game, but in the final minute Leo Carman rung the basket with a desperate long shot to put the Indians ahead by one point, which they successfully defended for the remaining 45 seconds.

Desire of Athletes for Higher Learning Will Surprise Profs

A FAMOUS college basketball coach shortly will be visited by a committee representing his team. They will demand assurances that their scholarships will not be discontinued as soon as their playing days are ended. . . . Seems that some athletes do go to college with the hope of getting diplomas after all. . . . Folks (bellboys, waiters and such) who provide service for tennis stars say that the court luminaries are the world's worst tipsters. . . . John Pesek, the wrestler, breeds greyhounds between bouts. . . . Patty-cake your pinkies for Charley Berry. The veteran catcher has done a swell job with Connie Mack's pitching rookies.

Iowa is due to come up with a back who will make the customers forget Oze Simmons. His name is Bush Lamb, and Temple players, who tried to stop him last year, insist that he'll be the hottest thing in football before the season's half over. . . . Also, down in the bull-rushes of Mississippi, there's Frank Bruiser Kinard, a giant tackle. Unless he has horrible luck he is sure of top rating this fall. . . . Dom Fonte and Bernie Pearlman, who played baseball at L. I. U., are scheduled to report to Elmira (N. Y.-Pa. league) next spring. . . . Although most colleges are clamoring for a crack at the big gates to be obtained there, Syracuse will not exhibit its very good basketball team at the Garden this winter. The reason? An alumnus checks in with the explanation that Syracuse wants to act dignified in front of Columbia, Penn., etc., in the hope of being invited to join the Ivy league elect some day.

Les Canadiens hockey team, having had good results from a similar experiment last year, Coach Cecil Hart again is sending a group of players to Emile Maupas' camp in the Laurentian mountains. After six weeks of such preliminary exercises, the veterans will join the rest of the squad at the Forum for the usual pre-season hockey drill. . . . Albert Battleship Leduc, former Les Canadiens defense man, and for the past three years managing coach of the Providence Reds, has resigned. His appointment as sales manager for a Montreal distillery keeps him too busy for hockey. . . . Lionel Conacher, having announced his retirement from active hockey to take over a Toronto political job, the Maroons are seeking a replacement. Sylvio Mantha, former Canadiens' defense star and manager, probably will be signed. . . . Bill Powers, secretary-treasurer of the N. Y. Hockey Writers association, is the only scribe filing in French from the Garden.

Temple Boys Tell One on Coach Pop Warner

Temple students insist that Pop Warner is wearing the same suit, hat and shoes that he has worn every day since taking up football coaching at the institution in 1933. . . . Eulace Peacock, the tan tornado from Temple, now runs an apartment house in Newark. . . . New York racing associations are not making any elaborate plans for the World's fair. And why should they? The Chicago fair didn't do Illinois courses any good. . . . Millionaire owners still are trying to sign Hirsch Jacobs but he spurns their offers, preferring to train a band of battered platers for his frau. Many millionaire stables are in real need of a Jacobs, too.

Pop Warner

Frank Makosky, Yankee rookie pitcher, recommends every detective story he reads to Lefty Gomez, his roomie, during the playing season. But spoils the reading by telling Lefty who committed the murder. . . . Harry Gumbert lives only thirty miles from Pittsburgh but never saw Forbes field until he became a member of the Giants' pitching staff. . . . New York stewards could learn something from Detroit where each horse's nostrils are examined in the paddock (before the race) to determine whether there has been any sponging. . . . Muggs Skladany, end coach at Carnegie Tech, has organized a separate training table for overland members of the football squad. Sits at the head of it himself—for reducing purposes.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

RUMORMONGERS insist Dartmouth now is doing an even more intensive job than Cornell in the matter of luring high-class football players to the campus. . . . Give a hand to little Albany academy. It's not as well press-agented as some of the other prep schools but it will be represented on college gridirons this fall by such stars as the Stearns twins at Williams, Al Hessberg, Yale's flashy halfback, and Johnny Vruwink, who may excel as a Princeton end. Vruwink, incidentally, is the Tiger basketball captain and the best courtman to have worn the Orange and Black since Ken Fairman.

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, who owned Cavalcade and still is rated as one of the leading ladies of the turf, does not ride and is scared of horses. . . . Charles Dexter, sports expert of the New York Daily Worker, provides the information that there are 70 racetracks in the Soviet Union with proper betting facilities on all of them. He also says that rugby and soccer are the favorite sports over there. . . . Chubby Dean and several of his young Athletic mates got so little money that they lived in a suburban trailer camp all season. At least that's the story sworn to by various reputable Philadelphians. . . . Ed Kringle, hard-hitting Manhattan back, shoots in the low golf seventies and was undefeated in 12 varsity matches last season.

Earl Coombs uses up three fungo bats a year while hitting practice flies to Yankee outfielders. One of the most impressive things about the American league is that the players did far less futile bickering with umpires than their National league contemporaries this year. . . . He won't get many raves but George Beilby, who performs for little Hamilton, may prove to be one of the best football players in the East.

Guldahl Says Success Due to Light Driver

Ralph Guldahl, national and western open champion, uses a driver that measures 43 inches and weighs 13 3/4 ounces. Guldahl, who formerly used heavy irons, last year began to play with irons of medium weight and attributes much of his recent success to the change. . . . There's at least one athlete to whom money isn't everything. . . . Charley Reboli, six-day bicycle rider, was signed to ride one of last season's races for $150 a day. . . . At the end of the first night he decided he didn't like his partner and withdrew from the event. . . . Mike Kreevich, White Sox outfielder, drew only $90 a month on his first professional baseball job, which was with the McCook, Neb., club in 1930. . . . When the season ended he went home broke.

Ralph Guldahl

Sixty-eight of the one hundred and thirty freshmen at Wabash college turned out for football. . . . George Halas has converted two tackles into guards on his Chicago Bears' football club. George Musso, a regular at guard, has played tackle since joining the team several years ago. . . . Tay Bell, called Jingle Bells by his mates, was a tackle at Washington State. . . . Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, becomes promoter and matchmaker of boxing at the Chicago stadium, succeeding Jim Mullen. . . . Kearns, who has enjoyed unusual success as a promoter in Detroit, will present his first show late in November. . . . Burleigh Grimes, boss of the Dodgers, will be a popular fellow at the winter baseball meetings. He has three pitchers, Mungo, Hamlin, and Butcher, on whom other National league clubs have their eyes. The Cardinals are reported to have the inside track on Mungo.

Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, 1935 national open champion, is one young man who does not intend to rely on professional golf as a lifetime career. Parks, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, plans to enter Carnegie Tech for a special course in the building trades, one of which will be masonry. Bob Herwig, center on the University of California eleven, married last summer and an Oakland newspaper has hired his bride to write the low-down on the school's football squad. . . . California players have kidded Herwig no end, but thus far Coach Stub Allison has failed to dissuade Mrs. Herwig from performing her job.

Dorothy Bundy, who eliminated Alice Marble from the national tennis tournament, is not the only athlete in her family. Her brother, Bill, Santa Monica high school guard, is rated one of the best prep football players in Southern California. . . . Bucky Harris, manager of the Senators, is convinced that Pat Malone stily resorts to the spitball occasionally, anointing his fingers before he receives the ball from the catcher. . . . Five of the Brooklyn Dodger backs—Ralph Kercheval, Joe Maniaci, Bert Johnson, Reni Nori and Fred King—have marks under 10 seconds for the 100-yard dash, but they apparently will have to run faster than that to get anywhere in the National Professional league.

CALIFORNIA News of the Week

Recount Reveals 17th Birth
Vallejo.—Mrs. Tony Nunes, 40, a resident of Benicia who gave birth to a daughter last week, revealed that she had miscounted the number of her children. She said her last was the seventeenth instead of the sixteenth as she previously announced. Fourteen of the children are living.

Theft of House Charged to Man
Nevada City (Nevada Co.).—J. T. (Buck) Ryan, 63, of You Bet, was arrested on the charge of stealing the home of Joseph Ferris, also of the You Bet district. While Ferris was absent from his cabin, Ryan is reported to have dismantled the place and trucked it to his own home in the You Bet section.

Alfalfa Urged for Humans
Los Angeles.—For good health, eat plenty of alfalfa. It's high in vitamin value and contains more inorganic salts than possibly any other vegetable. Authority for these statements is Dr. Victor G. Heiser, president of the International Leprosy Association, who arrived here last week from a trip to South Africa.

Wet, Severe Winter Predicted
University of Santa Clara.—A wet and severe winter was forecast by Dr. Albert J. Newlin, head of the Ricard Memorial Observatory, following a study of newly appeared sunspots. Four pronounced groups of spots on widely scattered portions of the sun's surface were studied by Dr. Newlin, who is one of the chief exponents of the sunspot weather theory advanced by the late Father J. S. Ricard, S. J.

Banker Leaves $750,000 to Charity
San Francisco.—A $750,000 charity fund will be established from cash and property left by the late William H. Crocker, San Francisco pioneer banker. Daniel Murphy, an executor of the Crocker estate, said the total assets of Crocker's private estate amounted to $1,000,000. He had given the bulk of his estate to his wife and children over a period of several years before his death.

L. A. Antelope Nearly Extinct
Los Angeles.—Antelope in Los Angeles County will soon be extinct, according to a report compiled by Spence D. Turner, chief county game warden. For a number of years, according to the report, the one-time large herd of antelope has been growing smaller and smaller and last year only three of the animals were reported by the department's field division men, as against four for the previous year. Other forms of wild life are flourishing largely because of protective laws. Pheasants, pigeons, gray squirrels and doves are on the increase, according to the report.

Loan Commissioner Named
Sacramento.—Justus F. Craemer, chairman of the Republican State State Central Committee, Orange County publisher and assistant State director of public works, has been appointed by Governor Merriam as the new State building and loan commissioner. Craemer succeeds Louis C. Drapeau, who resigned to accept appointment from the Governor as superior judge of Ventura County.

Forest Visitors Set Record
San Francisco.—A total of 4,217,000 individual visits to the 18 national forests in California were recorded for the fiscal year ending June 30. This is an all-time high, 400,000 over the previous record of 1933, Federal Forester for California, S. B. Shaw said. Tahoe National Forest was the most popular spot in Northern California with a total of 359,000. The four national forests in Southern California accounted for 2,500,000. Most of the people, nearly 2,000,000, who came to the forests, just came to picnic.

Reform Schools to Deport 100
Los Angeles.—Deportation of 100 transient juvenile offenders by November 1 to relieve crowded State institutions was decided by authorities after a meeting with Juvenile Judge Robert H. Scott. Three other steps to be taken are: 1—The expansion of facilities at the Whittier State school and the release of a yet undetermined number of inmates. 2—The construction of a new building at the Preston industrial school to replace one recently burned. 3—The addition of new quarters at the State schools and hospital at Sonoma and Pacific Colony, caring for feeble minded and degenerate juveniles.

New Can Factory for Stockton
Stockton.—The first earth in the construction of a new Continental Can Company factory was turned here on a 15-acre tract just beyond the city limits. The plant is being built here because of Stockton's strategic location in the center of a great fruit and vegetable producing region, officials said. The factory unit will contain also warehouse, administration quarters and will be served by a newly constructed railway siding.

Trim Ways to Greet Fall

WHEN the haze hangs in the horizon and you want to step right out and tell the world it's grand to be alive—that's when you want simple dresses like these to wear. Under a coat or without a coat. They're tops. Sew-Your-Own approves this fashion for simple things and helps you to make them for your own wardrobe with the aid of the three patterns shown here. Full instructions included.

Coat Dress for Large Women.
The woman with a real figure problem likes the ease and trim lines of this Princess coat dress, made to wear as casually as a coat. The dress buttons like a coat and takes inches off the silhouette. It's designed on flattering semi-fitted lines and is correctly made in silk or wool fabrics. For morning wear, this is a frock smartly made in sturdy cotton.

Slim Waistline in Misses' Frock.
If you wear a 12 to 20 size, then you'll want this very becoming dress made with lifted waistline to give you a molded figure-line. Square shouldered and trimly finished with two pockets, this dress will see you through every daytime occasion and is smartly made in any fabric you prefer—silk, velveteen or thin wool.

Woman's Shirtwaist Dress.
This fashion—good year in and year out—is one which you will want in your wardrobe in a heavy silk or in a sturdy cotton. Make it yourself and have a dress that you can wear at every hour of the day. Note the raglan sleeves extending from the yoke of the dress, a detail that assures you complete comfort and free movement.

Pattern 1983 is designed for sizes 36 to 50. Size 38 requires 3 3/4 yards of 54-inch material, plus 7/8 yard 39-inch fabric to contrast.

Pattern 1379 is designed for

A True Sentiment

That is a true sentiment which makes us feel that we do not love our country less, but more, because we have laid up in our minds the knowledge of other lands and other institutions, and other races, and have enkindled afresh within us the instinct of a common humanity, and of the universal beneficence of the Creator. —Dean Stanley.

sizes 12 to 20. Size 14 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material.

Pattern 1225 is designed for sizes 34 to 44. Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1/2 yard of contrasting.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN THE GREEN FOREST

WHEN the little people of the Green Forest become excited they become very much excited. Yes, sir, they become so excited that everybody talks at once, just like some other people. And now there was great excitement in the Green Forest. Indeed, Peter Rabbit couldn't remember a time when there had been so much excitement, not even the time when it was discovered that Prickly Porky the Porcupine had come down to the Green Forest to live. And it was all because of a big black stranger, big as Farmer Brown's boy and black as Blacky, the Crow, and whose name was Buster Bear.

"Pooh!" said Prickly Porky. "That was nothing. I could do the same thing."

had seen him before Sammy Jay did, but Paddy is one who does not tell all he sees, as does Sammy Jay, and so he had said nothing. But with Sammy Jay and Peter Rabbit to spread the news it was not long before everybody knew all there was to know about it and nothing else was talked about or thought about. Of course, the news soon spread all over the Green Meadows and to the Smiling Pool and it made almost as much excitement there as in the Green Forest. Of course, Peter Rabbit had told every one he met of how he had seen Jimmy Skunk make Buster Bear get out of his way, and of course almost everybody had a great deal of admiration for Jimmy Skunk. The only one who didn't was Prickly Porky. "Pooh!" said Prickly Porky. "That was nothing. I could do the same thing. I'm no more afraid of Buster Bear than Jimmy Skunk is. The fact is, I know Buster Bear very well, for he comes from the Great Woods from which I came. There is nothing to be afraid of in Buster Bear."

Of course, every one thought that Prickly Porky was just boasting, and that he was jealous of Jimmy Skunk. Reddy Fox said as much. "All right, Reddy! You go hunt up Buster Bear and invite him to come here, and I'll show you whether or not I am afraid of him."

Now, Reddy had boasted that he wasn't afraid of Buster Bear. You know he is a great boaster, and likes to pretend that he isn't afraid of anybody or anything. But, like most boasters, he always has an excuse ready when he is likely to have to make good one of his boasts. It was so this time. No sooner had Prickly Porky proposed that he hunt up Buster Bear than Reddy remembered that he had a very important errand to do way down on the Green Meadows. He was sorry, but it really had to be done. Perhaps Jumper the Hare would go in his place. Reddy grinned wickedly when he said this, for everybody knows that Jumper the Hare is very, very timid. So just try to imagine how surprised and excited everybody was when Jumper said: "Certainly I'll go and give the invitation to Buster Bear. I'll be delighted to."

At first everybody but Prickly Porky stared at Jumper as if they thought that he was joking, and they couldn't quite see the joke. Then as they began to realize that he meant just what he said, as if they thought him crazy. But Jumper appeared not to notice it, and started for the deepest part of the Green Forest to look for Buster Bear. Reddy Fox started off, too, but he went in the direction of the Green Meadows. He didn't want to go, but he had to because he had said he had an important errand there. As soon as he was out of sight he made a wide circle back to the Green Forest, and then he tried to get ahead of Jumper the Hare where he could hide and give Jumper a terrible fright. It wouldn't do to let the other little people think that Jumper the Hare dared do something that he didn't dare do.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By Roger B. Whitman

RADIATOR COVERS

NOT long ago I saw some tests made on a new type of radiator enclosures. The results showed that these enclosures cut down the heat thrown off by a radiator by nearly one-half. The enclosures were ornamental; they were better looking than the radiators. But cutting down the heat by one-half means the chilling of a room in which they might be used. There is no satisfaction in this, of course, for a radiator is intended to supply heat.

A radiator delivers heat in two ways: heat is radiated from the hot metal just as it is from a fire or the sun, and heat passes to the room through the upward flow of air that is heated between the radiator sections. An enclosure with a solid front prevents the radiation of heat from the metal. A cover over the top of the radiator prevents the free upward flow of heated air. Even the best of radiator enclosures check the heating effect to some extent, but a checking of nearly one-half is entirely too great to be considered.

GOOD NUTRITION IS UP TO COOK

Food Must Be Varied and Include Needed Calories.

By EDITH M. BARBER

GOOD nutrition depends upon more than food selection. First of all there is, of course, the choice of such a variety of foods that together they add to the perfect sum of calories, muscle building, energy giving, vitamin and mineral-bearing foods.

While some of these foods may be eaten in their raw form and need merely the process of digestion to be absorbed, others need to be prepared for digestion by cooking. Meat, for instance, must be cooked, because the human teeth are not strong enough to divide raw meat into small pieces which may be easily reached by the digestive juices.

Cereals also need preparation, either by long cooking, by grinding or by pressing by machinery, plus a short cooking. The ready-to-eat cereals are examples of the latter treatment. Flour is also prepared by machinery at the mills before it is made into bread, cakes and cookies.

While many vegetables and fruits can be eaten in their natural form, some of them need cooking for two reasons. The first is, of course, to make them ready for digestion; the other to make them palatable. Potatoes are the outstanding example of the latter fact. The raw potato is unsuited in its raw form to take an important place in our diet.

Fruit Au Gratin.

12 canned or stewed pear or peach halves

Cornflake crumbs

Butter

Drain the fruit, saving the juice. Roll fruit in crumbs. Place in buttered baking dish, cut side up. Dot with butter. Bake in hot oven (400 to 425 degrees Fahrenheit) until crumbs are brown. Serve with lemon sauce.

Chocolate Filling.

4 ounces chocolate, cut in pieces

1 1/4 cups milk

1/4 cup flour

1 cup sugar

2 tablespoons butter

1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Put chocolate and milk in double boiler and heat. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until smooth. Sift flour with sugar, add a small amount of the chocolate mixture and stir until smooth. Return to double boiler, cook until thick and add butter and vanilla. This filling may be stored in refrigerator in a covered jar. It may be used in the pudding, or to put between layers of cake or as a pie filling.

Potatoes Hashed in Cream.

1 tablespoon butter

2 cups diced potatoes

Salt, pepper

2 cups rich milk

Melt the butter, add potatoes and seasoning and stir over fire until the butter is absorbed. Add the milk and cook slowly, about half an hour. Add more milk if needed.

Baked Stuffed Fish.

1 medium sized fish, two to three pounds

Stuffing

2 cups soft bread crumbs

2 teaspoons chopped onion

Salt, pepper

2 teaspoons lemon juice

3 tablespoons melted fat

Clean the fish by removing the scales and the fins, and split. Stuff and sew. Dredge with flour, dot with butter and bake in a hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit). Cook until the fish separates from the bone and flakes when tested with the point of a knife.

Potato Salad.

4 cups cold boiled potatoes

1 chopped onion

1 cucumber or 2 pickles

1/4 cup French dressing

Cooked salad dressing

Cut potatoes into dice or slices, add the onion and sliced cucumber or pickles, mix with French dressing which should be very well seasoned, and let stand in ice box one or two hours. Mix with salad dressing, serve on lettuce and garnish with parsley. Celery, cut into cubes, or celery seed may be used with the other ingredients if desired.

Plum Jam.

1 pound plums

1/2 to 3/4 pound sugar

Wash plums and remove seeds. Add sugar and cook until mixture is thick and clear. Pack immediately into hot, clean jars and seal at once.

Salmon Cutlets.

2 cups flaked salmon

1 cup thick white sauce

1 teaspoon chopped parsley

Paprika

1 teaspoon lemon juice

Salt

Mix in the order given, spread on a platter to cool. When cold, shape like a cutlet and fry in deep fat, 375 degrees F. A stick of macaroni may be inserted in the end to represent the bone.

Love, Honor and Obey

For the greatest heating effect, the front of an enclosure should be an open grill that will not check the radiation of heat from the metal. Not long ago I saw a home-made enclosure; a wood frame with the front filled in with diamond metal lath. This interfered very little with the radiation of heat, and, painted with the rest of the enclosure, was very attractive in appearance.

For a full flow of heated air, the top of an enclosure should be open, or at least be of open grill-work. The alternative is to have a solid top, as much higher than the radiator as the radiator is deep, and with its front open. Heated air will then have room enough to pass out horizontally. The lower part of an enclosure should be open, so that there can be a full flow of cool air from the floor.

An enclosure should not be bought for its looks alone. First consideration should be given to the extent to which it may cut down the heating effect of the radiator.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

By JEAN

FEMININE shoestring problems are nothing to masculine shoestring problems, we hear. It's probably because the men have more shoestrings to handle. Anyhow, we've learned on good authority that most men's shoestrings get into hard knots sooner or later. And it is rumored that wives find it difficult to quiet the frustrated untiers of knots.

Well, here is our advice to wives of men whose shoestrings won't untie.

First have some scissors handy. Keep your eye on the man who is grappling with the knot. Don't step in too soon for he must be given a chance to feel his independence. When he gets to the point where he gives the shoestring one tremendous yank and then glowers at it, hand him the shears without a word. You know then that he is mad enough to ruin a pair of shoestrings willingly. Everything will be fine after that. But perhaps you'd better have an extra pair of shoestrings tucked away in your sewing basket in case his destructive tendencies have worn off by the next morning.

AROUND the HOUSE

Items of Interest to the Housewife

Knit Those Patches.—Instead of darning large holes in men's or children's woolen underwear, knit a square large enough to cover the hole in stocking-stitch, using thin steel needles and fine wool, and sew it over the hole. It is neater than a darn and wears better.

Cleaning Brickwork.—Brickwork around the fireplace can be cleaned by scrubbing with any scouring powder with only enough water to form a thin paste. Follow by thorough rinsing.

Egg Savories.—Boil some eggs hard. Halve them and mix the yolks with grated cheese, anchovy paste, or sardines. Add a little butter and seasoning. Fill the halves with the mixture and place on rounds of toast or fried bread. Put a slice of tomato between the egg and the toast.

Onion Fritters.—Boil 4 large onions until they will mash easily. Cook 2 ounces of rice, drain off the water, and allow to cool. Add 3 ounces of breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoonful sage, salt and pepper to taste, and 2 well-beaten eggs to the onions and rice. Divide into several portions, coat with egg and breadcrumbs, and cook in boiling fat until a light brown.

For That Nutty Flavor.—Try dropping a teaspoonful of peanut butter into each muffin pan before pouring in the batter. This gives the muffins a delicious nutty flavor.

To Freshen Salt Meat.—Put it into cold water, quickly bring to a boil, then let simmer.

Storing Linens.—In storing linens for a long period, it is better to roll them, as the material may be weakened by continued creasing.

Bananas as a Garnish.—Bananas make an attractive garnish when they are fluted. Peel bananas, score lengthwise with a fork, then slice crosswise.

Cleaning Woolen Clothes.—Dark woolen clothes which pick up lint easily are quickly cleaned by wetting a rubber sponge, then wringing it dry and sponging the garment.

ROCKAWAY BEACH PEDRO VALLEY

By C. H. T.

These pleasant days are bringing hosts of visitors to the coastside to enjoy the beach and mountains. Shelter Cove has entertained many swimming parties on its fine safe waters so snugly enclosed by the magnificent rocks that are its notable point of scenic beauty. Cars line up at Pedro Beach, and along the Rockaway front, more than in past seasons, due to the new highway.

Residents are still eagerly anticipating the macadamizing of the road, which will make a great improvement in travelling conditions, less dust and dirt. Buildup continues on the Pedro hills. It seems a local "fashion" to construct the garage first, as a weekend cabin, with the "loftier" home well into the rosy future.

An irrespressible Pedro home owner suggests changing the name to "Shacktown." (Tut, tut!). The worst feature, however, is not the architecture, but a lamentable prevalence of surface sewage, which flows down the hillside with results that cannot be conducive to public health. No doubt this fault can, and will, be rectified as soon as the residents can "get around to it."

There is so much to be done! Fire Marshall George Olmo is experimenting with various kinds of sirens for Pedro. Fred Bohr has generously donated a siren that was tried out last week. But the electric connections proved inadequate, on account of the distance that had to be covered by the too slender wire. Someone suggested the purchase of a large bell, one that could be heard in a wide area. The bell might be useful as a standby, in case anything happened to put the electric connections out of commission.

Who was the good looking young man in San Francisco, who dashed up to Mrs. Jennie Bicknell one day recently, and put a great bouquet of roses into her hands. Said he (quote) "Please don't think I'm bold—but I'd like to give you these roses!" He vanished, leaving Jennie wondering. The roses occupied a prominent place next day in the new lunch room.

A meeting of the Pedro Valley Improvement Association was held last Saturday at the Danmann Hall, Karl Strutz, chairman, conducting. Alice Martin, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting, and communication received, pertaining to bad road conditions, etc.

All members present agreed that "something must be done" about the intolerable defects in the roadway at Grande avenue and Belfast, which now are not only ruinous to cars, but truly dangerous for those who travel on them. No doubt, when these deplorable conditions are made known to the county authorities, they will be promptly remedied. Following the business of the meeting, refreshments were served, and a group adjourned to the Danmann place for dancing.

Mrs. Althea Pope of San Francisco, entertained a large party of 40 or 50 lodge friends at her Shelter Cove beach house last Sunday. All the guests enjoyed surf bathing, beach sports, and dancing to music provided by Bud Lewis' accordion. Mr. Roy Darnell was the genial master of ceremonies, while Al Pope devoted himself to catching fish for the crowd. The day was perfect, full of sunshine and balmy autumn warmth.

It is rumored that the Clyde Garners, who closed their Pedro home and went to San Francisco a couple of weeks ago are planning to return. (P. S. They have already returned. Welcome home.)

Fred Bohr, speaking at the Saturday meeting of the local club, declared that "Pedro has the greatest place in the entire county!" He and Mrs. Bohr have one of the finest summer homes in the district, and both are enthusiastic about the possibilities of this scenic region. The Bohrs are taking their three-week vacation here.

Bill Conboy had a birthday recently, which was celebrated by a dinner at Pedro with a few congenial friends, invited by Mrs. Christen. Later another dinner noted the occasion of the birthday in the city, at which Mrs. Christen was hostess.

The Bob Scott place serves some of the finest sandwiches to be had in this locality. Mrs. Nora Christen, popular hostess, was noted on an

Expeditions In Search of New Varieties Of Plants And Vegetables Visit All Parts Of The World

(By Hart Goodrich)

Did you know that our government sends explorations all over the world searching for new plants, including vegetables, fruits, nuts, cereals and forage grasses? These men in the Division of Foreign Plant Introduction develop new crops for the American farmer and bring new delicacies to our tables. More than $100,000,000 of our yearly national income from agriculture can be directly traced to the efforts of these plant explorers.

They have journeyed to Siberia, Mongolia, Indo-China, New Guinea, Turkestan, East Africa, Patagonia and other lands, both far and near, to bring home their seeds and grasses. Before a plant reaches its destination in one of the many experimental stations throughout the country, it must first submit to as rigid an inspection as immigrants to this country do at either Ellis or Angel Island. While it is important to our agricultural industries to keep a steady stream of these plant immigrants flowing into the United States, it is also important to keep out new insect diseases and pests.

It takes at least five years of experimentation and propagation of a plant before any conclusion can be made as to its adaptability under agricultural conditions found in the United States.

How important has plant exploration been to our California agriculture! It has brought Trebi barley from Asiatic Turkey and Club Marout barley from Egypt, which now cover 750,000 acres in our Western States where the rainfall is low. Two varieties of rice have proved important, one from Formosa and the other from Italy. Hairy Peruvian alfalfa is now the most important variety grown in California. The purple vetch, which is important as a winter cover crop in the citrus groves of California, is another immigrant from Italy introduced in 1899.

Introduced by a bureau representative who found it in Mexico, the Alcala variety of cotton has been developed into the variety around which the cotton industry of the Southwest largely centers, and its production reaches a value of $50,000,000 per year.

The date industry of the Southwest, especially in Arizona and California, has been based on government experiments of varieties introduced from the Old World.

Just at present two expeditions, one in India and the other in Turkey, are in the field looking for a succulent vegetable that may serve as a new crop for the South. Vegetables now flourish from February to May, but there is a great need for a seasonal variety which can withstand the hot dry climate of the Southern summers. For these reasons, two hot countries, where vegetables form a large part of the diet of peoples restrained by their religion from eating meat were chosen for field work.

Year after year these government scientists go out to pitch their tents under tropic skies and face innumerable hardships in pursuit of leaf, blade and seed to add to the beauty of our gardens, to prick our appetites with new vegetables and luscious fruit, or to fatten our herds with strange forage crops that first waved across the hot plains of Africa. Certainly we may look on these explorers as true treasure hunters.

DISTRICT HEAD DISCUSSES AID OF STUDENTS

At the district board meeting, Monday afternoon of this week in the Burlingame Library, Mrs. Elmer Miller, president of Seventeenth District, stressed the fact that student aid and life memberships are the important considerations of the 41 units of the Parent Teacher Association in San Mateo County at this time.

By student aid is meant contributions of clothing, to be sent to the Student Welfare Shop at 307 South Delaware avenue, San Mateo; or money, which is used to supply high school students with eye glasses and other necessary articles which their families are unable to furnish.

The purchase of a life membership not only serves to confer honor on a deserving member of an organization to whom it may be pressed, but it especially has the advantage of giving another boy or girl an opportunity for attaining a higher education. Through an increased membership, and by having special money raising activities, these worthwhile projects can be met more successfully.

It was announced that the next district meeting will be at the Pescadero High School, Pescadero, Friday morning of next week at 10:30. The session will be known as the Coast-side Conference.

Jefferson Union High School, Daly City, will be the place at which a district conference will be held early in November.

Mrs. Stella Jensen, fifth vice president and director of the Department of Education, will be hostess to the chairmen of her department, Wednesday of next week, at 2 o'clock, to form plans for the November district meeting at the Burlingame High School.

Auxiliary Meets In Redwood City

The Twenty-sixth District of the American Legion Auxiliary met recently in Veterans Hall, Redwood City. The Twenty-sixth District drill team installed the officers who had not been installed at convention. The retiring captain and business manager of the group were presented with gifts from their team. These officers were Lucile Soule and Katherine Foreman. The new captain, Hilda Prizborowski, and the new business manager, Violette Bozovich, were introduced to the group.

All units are concentrating on membership at this time and some of the units have fine projects for the year. San Bruno is helping to furnish a home donated to the Girl Scouts of that city.

Mrs. Florence Chess and Mrs. Helen McLeod, delegate and alternate to the National Convention at New York from the district, gave interesting high lights on the recent convention and parade.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Ruth Close, local secretary of the National Tuberculosis Association. She called to mind the splendid work that had been done testing high school seniors for consumption and how each case had been followed up and X-rayed. It has been proven that every case of tuberculosis comes from another case and is not hereditary. This disease can be wiped out if a restraining order to quarantine is enforced and other members of family are examined for infection. Community singing and refreshments closed the meeting.

BAYSHORE NEWS

Mr. Mat Parker, representing the City Council of Bayshore, was assured last Monday evening at the meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners of Bayshore that if two additional hydrants were installed all stand-by charges on McDonald avenue would be paid in full.

The Goodladies Club of Bayshore were entertained last Tuesday evening at the home of Jessie Ind. Cards and refreshments were enjoyed. The Goodfellows, as usual, held their meeting at the home of Chris Jeppersin.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Little entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kothgossner of Corte Madera with a dinner, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Kothgossner is Mrs. Little's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Russell and their small daughter and son will soon move into their new home on Oreinta street.

The whist given by the Voters League and sponsored by the ladies, Friday of last week, was very successful. Chairman was Mrs. Dorothy Cox. The league plans a gala Halloween costume ball, Halloween eve. A prize will be given for the best costumed couple.

VISITACION VALLEY NEWS

The Bonvitas Social and Athletic Club members spent a pleasant day on the Arleta Park Beach at Half Moon Bay, Sunday, October 3. Lunch was served, and Chef Frank Wivinniss had charge of the meats. He surely knows how to barbecue it. Tom Feeney took charge of the shooting range; Bill Watson the football game; in fact, everybody present was doing something all the time, even those that took to the water and got their feet wet.

They intend holding these parties often when weather permits. At a recent meeting of the club twelve candidates were initiated and three more applications presented last Friday. The big turkey benefit whist party will be held Thursday evening, November 18, at the hall, 111 Raymond avenue.

The Visitacion Valley Improvement Club will hold their thirty-third anniversary entertainment, dance and buffet lunch on Saturday evening, October 23, at Bonvitas Club hall, 111 Raymond avenue. Congressman Richard E. Welch will be guest of honor. All members are selling tickets.

The ladies of the St. James Presbyterian Church on Leland avenue will have their annual dinner and bazaar at the Bonvitas Hall, Thursday evening, October 28. Many articles can be purchased that will make wonderful Christmas gifts. These ladies are noted for their wonderful dinners.

The new auditorium of the Visitacion Valley School is completed. And the dedication will be held this coming Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. During the coming week final arrangements will be made for music by the municipal band, speakers and entertainment.

Fern Leaf Camp, Woodmen of the World, has secured four new applications during the past week; good work for assistant district managers, Dand Fields and C. A. Louis; the camp announces its annual turkey whist party for Wednesday evening, November 3, at the Community Center Hall, 66 Raymond avenue.

Club Of Peninsula Chiefs In Observance Of Fire Prevention

On Friday evening of last week, the Peninsula Fire Chiefs Club, composed of all fire chiefs from San Francisco to San Jose, celebrated Fire Prevention Week by having a display and demonstration of both antique and modern fire apparatus with pictures of fire prevention gathered from all fire departments on the peninsula, at the Menlo Park Fire Department quarters, and on the drill tower.

Chief Hugh Morris, San Mateo, president of the club, gave an interesting talk on fire prevention. San Mateo County Fire Warden Bert Werder gave a demonstration of rural district and forest fire fighting.

An interesting drill composed of life lines and pomper ladders and the carrying of injured women from the 45-foot tower was put on by fire boys of the Menlo Park fire district.

Salvage work was shown by the Belmont Fire Department.

Battalion Chief George Murray of the San Francisco Fire Department then sent in a major disaster alarm through the Mobile radio transmitter of the U. S. Naval Reserve. Four minutes and six seconds after the alarm was sent in Palo Alto arrived with chief and apparatus. One minute later Stanford University was on the scene, and one minute after their arrival, Redwood City came with one pumper and hook

Native Daughters San Rafael Fiesta

Early Spanish days will be revived at the annual San Rafael Fiesta, October 23 and 24. Marinita Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, is presenting the affair.

Feature of opening day will be a Spanish market.

Fiesta events on the second day will include a horse show at the high school athletic field and a parade with floats, drill teams, drum and bugle corps and historical entries.

Father: "No indeed I won't pay for elocution lessons for Eloise. She can talk me out of enough things already."

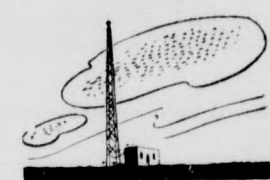

and ladder truck. They immediately put up 65-foot ladder, rescued two women and got an inch and a half hose line by shooting a small line over the tower and then raised a two and a half inch line by means of a pike pole.

Refreshments were served in the fire house by the Menlo Park boys following the demonstration.

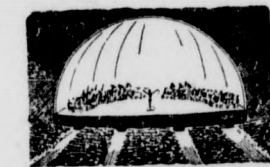

The following members of the Daly City Fire Department journeyed down and witnessed this very interesting affair: Chief and Mrs. A. Chesney, Assistant Chief A. Bodien, Captain and Mrs. Jack Coleman, H. Sunderman Jr. and wife, Walter Davis and wife, Fred Mather and wife, and R. Foppiano and E. Cuneo, all of Station Number 4; and Captain and Mrs. F. Peterson of Station Number 1.

Sympathetic.

The civilian who wasn't quite equal to the task of distinguishing officers' rank by their insignia, was conversing with a colonel. Several times he called him captain, then, as if not sure, he asked: "You are a captain, aren't you?" "Well," said the colonel, slightly amused. "I am not any more, although I once was." "That's too bad," consoled the civilian. "Drink, I suppose."—U. S. Marine Corps Leatherneck.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.
Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.
For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."
Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

By Emilie Loring

WNU Service.

The laughing tenderness of his voice twisted Brooke's heart unbearably. She tore her thoughts from him and watched her brother. She could see his lips move in unison with the lines spoken on the stage.

The curtain fell slowly on the minor climax of the first act. The setting and theme had been established and the characters presented. The audience applauded enthusiastically. From a hole in the curtain Brooke saw the New York producer go up the aisle. Would he return?

"Don't you dare go away, don't you dare!" she flung at his straight back.

"How did it go?" Sam's voice was hoarse.

"It's wonderful, Sam. Not an unnecessary word; every line was 'Forward march!' for your story. The acting is the best I've ever seen in an amateur performance."

"So what? Does it prove anything? They're all good except Daphne; she isn't getting her lines over. I hold my breath every time she opens her mouth. Isn't Trent great? He's the spark-plug of the cast. Wait till you see him in the crucial moment in the next act, when he thinks the girl he loves has double-crossed him."

Jerry Field appeared beside her dressed in leather jacket and knickers, with a gun in his hand.

"How's it going, Brooke?"

"I can't see the stage, but from the response of those out front I'd say it was a hit. You're grand in that sports costume. You've made every point, Jerry."

"Thanks. That's because when I say a word of love to Lucette I'm saying it to you." He caught her hand and pressed his lips to it fervently.

"Please—don't, Jerry."

"You've said that too many times, sweet thing. After the play we'll have a reckoning—get me?"

"After the play." Brooke repeated the words to herself. So much was to happen that would change lives, after the play.

"Hey! Field! Field, come on!" Sam's whisper. Sam's beckoning hand. Brooke followed Jerry as far as the wings from which she could see him drop to a log on the stage, left center.

"Why don't you turn thumbs up and end the poor boy's torment?" asked a low voice behind her.

She turned quickly. Something in Mark Trent's voice made her furiously angry.

"That's quite a suggestion that I end 'the poor boy's torment.' I will. Tonight."

"Don't do it until I change after the show. I want to drive you home, Brooke. There is something I must say to you."

Brooke felt the blood rush to her face and recede. Had Henri double-crossed her and told him about the will? Did Mark Trent think she intended to hide it? She wouldn't give him a chance to accuse her before she produced that paper locked in her desk. She said as steadily as she could with his eyes boring into her soul:

"Sorry. The minute the curtain falls, I shall dash to Lookout House to change into something snappy for the grand celebration. You wouldn't have me come to your grand party in this green knit, would you? Quick! Sam wants the wings cleared."

She backed out, conscious of Mark Trent's disturbing presence close beside her.

"The music has stopped! There go the footlights!" She caught his sleeve, looked up and begged in an unsteady whisper:

"Do your best, Mark. This act will kill or make the play."

His lips were on hers so quickly that she had no chance to protest. He kissed her passionately, thoroughly; said in a husky whisper:

"Credit that to the silent policeman. Now, I'll play that part to the hilt."

Brooke tried to ignore her racing pulses. She mocked:

"I seem to be in the path of an emotional cyclone; first, Jerry Field; now you. I suppose Jed will be the next. Your cue! Quick! Quick!"

In an instant he was on the stage. Brooke shut her eyes tight in an effort to steady a whirling world.

Mark Trent's lips on hers had been like an electric current through her body. Every pulse, every nerve responded.

She listened. It was very still in front, a sort of hypnotized stillness. She could hear the voices on the stage, but she couldn't keep her mind on what they were saying. Even as she supplied properties, even as the actors made their entrances and exits she was thinking of Mark Trent's eyes as he had looked down into hers, was wondering what he wanted to tell her on the way home?

How Reyburnish! The incurable dramatic streak in the Reyburn temperament had been in the saddle when she had planned that.

CHAPTER XIII

As the curtain fell with dramatic slowness for the last time, the audience stood clapping and calling. As it rose again, Brooke saw the blond marcelle, second row center, make its way up the aisle followed by a man with sleek black hair. The producer and the manager! They had come back for the third. That must mean something. Were they leaving before speaking to Sam? He was on the stage now in the midst of the cast who had taken their bows; the arms of the women were heaped with flowers. He had put on coat and collar and tie but the white bow had gone rakish. He looked very young as he stood grinning boyishly and waiting for a chance to speak. His voice shook as he said:

"Thanks lots! Glad you liked it. Couldn't have put it across without their help." He indicated the men and girls around him on the stage, and the audience broke into thunderous applause. The curtain fell slowly.

Brooke's eyes were blinded by happy tears as she started for the dressing-room. She must get back to Lookout House to change for the party. The girls of the cast were going to Mark Trent's in the evening frocks they had worn in the last act. Leaving the wings, she collided with the marcelled blond. The New York producer! He was unaware of her murmured apology as he gesticulated and talked to his sleek-haired companion. She listened unashamedly and heard him say:

"It's got everything. Humor, suspense, moving simplicity, fidelity to ideals, and unflinching movement."

"But has it got box-office?"

"I'll gamble my last dollar on it. It's the old recipe for play-writing carried to perfection:

"Make 'em laugh; make 'em weep; make 'em wait.' Where'd you say that boy got his start?"

Brooke dodged acquaintances and strangers in evening clothes who were crowding on to the stage to greet the actors. In the dressing-room she slipped into her fur coat and ran downstairs to her town car parked near the rear entrance.

The snow was falling half-heartedly as if it had not quite decided if it were worth while to come down at all. She drove swiftly toward home. Mark Trent had asked her to plan his party, had told her to go the limit in preparations to make it a success.

"Go as far as you like with everything, only be sure that there is enough to eat and sufficient help. To have plenty is an obsession of mine."

There would be plenty and then some. Just before she left Lookout House for the Club theater, the caterer had arrived with his van and a horde of waiters. They had sounded like an army making camp.

Trent's Japanese cook came forward to open the door of the car when she arrived. Snow powdered his shoulders and cap. His eyes glittered in his swarthy face. His teeth gleamed as he ducked his head in a funny little bow. Brooke let down the window.

"I won't get out here, Taku. I'll run into our garage. All the space outside will be needed for the cars of the guests."

"You right, Mees. Thank you. Much big party, Kowa say."

Would there be room for Sam's coupe? Brooke wondered, as she drove into the garage. One corner had been filled with ice cream tubs. He could leave it outside, she decided. She shut off her engine and partially closed the door as she went out.

As she reached the dark hemlock behind the Other House, she lingered for an instant in its deep shadow. How still the world was. Snow fell as softly as if someone had slit open a pillow and shaken down its feathers. There was no near sound of surf tonight.

She shrank deeper into the purple gloom under the tree as two men came down the back steps from the kitchen—waiters, she knew by their clothing. Not more than five feet from her one of them stopped to light a cigarette. He growled:

"The boss can wait for them ice cream tubs till I get a smoke."

Appreciation

TO BE able to appreciate the best that there is in life is an ideal that every youth should have. There are all sorts of things in life, some of them good, some of them bad, and some neither very good nor very bad. There are hosts of young people who miss the best things, because they have fixed their attentions on lesser things. So the finest things in life they never see. The youth who has learned to look for the best in music, in art, in literature, in his associates and in himself, will get the most out of life.

CARRY YOUR ALKALIZER
WITH YOU ALWAYS

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkaliizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonsful of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

LOCAL BRANCH ENTERS FLOAT TO TAKE PRIZE

Chromium Loving Cup Will Be Presented Daly City Unit Of I. C. F.

Prime honors went to the Daly City Branch No. 49, Italian Catholic Federation, for having the most artistic float in the Columbus Day parade, held in San Francisco last Sunday, according to announcement made by William Zappettini, chairman of the awards committee.

First prize, a bronze chromium loving cup, will be presented to the local organization when the group gathers in regular session, Tuesday evening of next week.

At the same meeting the girl who is to rule as queen of the Inauguration Festival here will be named.

Designers of the prize winning float were Vince Varni and John Palletti, assisted by Joe Firpo and George Rossi—all of Daly City.

The boat shaped float was composed of fresh marigolds. On the prow and against a background of moss was emblazoned, in yellow flowers, "I. C. F., Daly City Branch 49."

CO-OPERATIVE LIVING DECLARED SUCCESS

Co-operative living has been declared a success by the San Jose State College coeds, who are now ready to occupy a third house on this basis.

BRISBANE GENERALITIES

By Mary Lou Burns

Dolly Wilson was in Brisbane visiting friends, Saturday of last week.

Eddie Unger, who was hurt in an accident recently has fully recovered and is now able to return to work. Forest Kelsey, who was injured in the same accident, is being held in the hospital under observation for two weeks more.

Red Wilson, although still seriously ill, is past the dangerous stage and will recover.

Mrs. Amos Kennedy of Mondocino street, celebrated her birthday, Saturday, October 9.

"Tiny" Burns has opened a new cleaning and pressing establishment in the Lopez Building and also handles a line of men's furnishings.

"Duke" Alexander left for CCC camp last week.

Mrs. Ethel Jonas has been jury sitting in her "spare time."

Mrs. Tony Valentino, a former Brisbaneite, was visiting here, Tuesday of this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bennett have purchased D. H. Drullinger's residence on San Benito road.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Anthony have just bought a new stucco home on San Bruno and Monterey avenue.

The steady drone of tractors, graders and all devices of road machinery proclaims the fact that Brisbane is growing modern. The streets on the lower "terraces" of the town are being oiled and graveled; the streets on the upper levels are being scraped.

Mrs. Gertha McKinney, president of the Brisbane unit of the Parent Teachers Association, attended the Seventeenth District Executive Board meeting at the Burlingame Library, Monday of this week.

OGDEN MILLS DIES IN N. Y.

Ogden Livingston Mills

Ogden Livingston Mills, 53, secretary of the treasury during the Hoover administration, who died recently at his town house in New York. He was suddenly seized with a heart attack. Mills was following his practice of law, and held many industrial directorships at the time of his death, among which was a directorship in the Mergenthaler Linotype Company. He was an outstanding Republican leader and had a home and large holdings near Millbrae, Cal.

RECORD HOLDS 'OPEN HOUSE'

The mechanical department of the Daly City Record was visited by pupils from the Woodrow Wilson School, Friday afternoon of last week. Thirty-five sixth grade students, accompanied by their teacher, Miss Varni, "looked us over" from Linotype to press, while the production of the paper was in operation.

Many of the boys and girls, with pencil and paper in hand, took notes on what they were seeing and hearing. The complicated mechanism of the line seemed to intrigue one little girl, who said, "It seems as though it did everything at once."

Many Daly City residents visited our plant during Newspaper Week on the open house days, Thursday and Friday of last week.

The teacher and pupils who were our guests registered as follows: Miss Varni, teacher; Lausine Sandys, Irene Garner, Augusta Cattaneo, Edith Ridington, Elaine Slocum, Herbert Buckenmeyer, Shirley Mae Rice, Esther Hanel, John Mosman, Wallame Nielsen, Barbara Bettencourt, Mary De Negri, Johnnie Gonsalves, Burt Yeoman, Billy Wilson, Robert Hahn, Hugh Paterson, Wynne Humphrey, Lorraine Woodward, Gwendolyn Stegeman, Beverly E. Special Session Is Announced

A special session of Congress for November 15 was called by President Roosevelt, Tuesday of this week.

The second such session to be summoned since Roosevelt came into office in March, 1933, is expected to be for the purpose of enacting farm control and hour and wage legislation.

Both of these measures were scheduled for last session of congress, but were withheld by the length of the session.

Many of the issues have been foreshadowed by Roosevelt's recent western trip.

Too Much Booze Draws Heavy Fine

Henry Newman, 5517 Geary street, San Francisco, pleaded guilty in Police Court Monday of this week, to a charge of driving while drunk and was fined $50, half of which was suspended by Judge Wade H. Clay.

Newman was cited by a state highway patrol officer. With him was Thomas MacIntosh of San Francisco, who was fined $25. He was charged with being drunk in a public place, and the fine suspended.

Killed On Way To Football Game

Lawrence Washington, 47 year old Los Angeles fire department captain, uncle of Kenny Washington, star U. C. L. A. football player, and George E. Lavigne, 28, were killed, Saturday of last week, in a traffic accident near Visalia.

They were en route to Palo Alto to witness the U. C. L. A.-Stanford game.

Leads Nation In Car Registration

For the first time California has surpassed New York state and now leads the entire nation in the total motor vehicle registration.

Figures released by the State Department, recently, disclosed that California's registration for the first six months of 1937 totaled 2,476,478, a lead of 116,070 over New York's 2,360,408 for the same period.

Will Rebuild Fire Leveled Structures

Plans are being made to build up from the ashes the Kingston Bedding Company and the Gymkhana Club, the San Mateo structures destroyed by fire, Saturday of last week.

Loss incurred by the mattress factory ran to more than $3000 with about 60 per cent being covered by insurance. One new machine, valued at $1000, was completely destroyed by the blaze, reports said.

Meanwhile, activities at the Gymkhana Club were scheduled to continue as usual following the $70,000 fire which took the lives of 37 blooded horses housed in the stable buildings.

COUNTY HEADS QUESTIONED BY GRAND JURORS

than in the bound assessment roll, and the other concerns numbering of license books.

Both criticisms should have been directed against the controller's office, according to McSweeney, because in both instances the controller prescribes the form of record to be used.

The reforms recommended by the grand jury suggested a simplification of the purchasing procedure and more unity of activity in the various departments. Details will be made public at the meeting of the grand jury next week.

Just what the jury asked the official called into the session was not disclosed, but it was understood the questions dealt with features of the county setup rather than with the integrity or ability of any individual officers.

BEAUTY PLAYS AT ALCAZAR

GRACE COOPER

As Ruth Mayo, in Eugene O'Neill's Pulitzer Prize play, "Beyond The Horizon," which closes Sunday night at the Alcazar, has registered as one of Federal Theater's star actresses. She is frequently heard in radio broadcasts also.

Victim And Driver Tell Two Versions Of Road Accident

Dave W. Powers, 45, victim of an automobile accident on Bayshore highway near the Pacific Bone Coal Plant at Bayshore city, Tuesday morning of this week, told police he had been struck while riding in his own car, had been hurled through the roof and had lost a wallet containing $150.

State Highway Patrolman Clem F. Collins and Neal Porter investigated. They found only one car, a truck driven by George M. Jewell, 18, of Sebastopol, involved in the accident.

Jewell said he saw Powers walking on the highway, but could not avoid hitting the man.
